CURTISS AERO FACTORY GOING TO MOVE HERE

Fact Disclosed at Banquet of Board of Trade Last Evening ,

Subject Under Negotiation For Several Months-Interesting Speakers

"I started as a tinker, but I was forced to become first a motorcyclist, then an aviator, because I found that nobody else would ride the machines I built," declared Glenn H. Curtiss, hailed as America's foremost birdman, at a banquet tendered by the Board of Trade at The Stratfield last night, to the aviators and committees in charge of the three-days aviation meet which began this afternoon at the Lake Aerogrome.

That the Curtiss aeroplane factory now located at Hammondsport, New York, may be moved to this city, was disclosed by President Fred Enos of the Board of Trade, who presided as ith loud applause by the assemblage f Bridgeport business men and manufacturers at the banquet.

To a Farmer reporter, Mr. Curtiss later confirmed this statement, and said that he intends to take a good look around Bridgeport with Mr. Enos and talk over the possibilities. "Of course we're located in a little bit of a place now," said Mr. Curtiss, and our business is growing so rapfdly that we simply must have better facilities. Of the two qualifications the latter is the more important," Final touches were put upon the aerodrome this morning in preparation for this afternoon's flights, and in anticipation of a big crowd on the grounds.

The aviators declared that the day appears excellent for flights. The air is moving but slightly and the warmth of the sun's rays is appreciated by the aviators, who are exposed to extreme cold at times in rapidly moving through the upper atmosphere. Lieuts. Ellyson and Fickel probably will not fly until tomorrow. Messrs. McCurdy and Beachey are scheduled to give the thrills for today, and probably will carry passengers if conditions are satisfactory. Today and tomorrow the wireless tests will probably be made. The wireless apparatus which has been installed on one of the aeroplanes weighs only 45 pounds, and probably is the lightest and most compact wireless kit for its power that has ever been devised. The wireless work is being supervised by Oscar Roesen, an electrical engineer, of Stevens Institute, who is performing the experiments for the New York World. He will endeavor to get into communication with the wireless station on the World build-A test of the kit from the A. Holland Forbes, who followed, de-clared that the audience had just tiss. FINDING LIFE TOO HARD MISS WAKELEE DIES

It's Sugar Water Says Girl of 20 as She Drinks Deadly Draught

Was Oldest of Family of Eight -Had Failed as Canvasser and Was Crazed With Despair

Giving way to an outburst of passion, due no doubt in part to a disordered mental condition. Beatrice Wakelee, a pretty girl who recently made an unsuccessful effort to become a canvasser, committed suicide at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton S. Wakelee, 316 Benham avenue. She was 20 years of age, and one of eight children, three daughters and five sons. She was the oldest girl, and upon her there devolved a large share of the responsibility of maintaining the little home. The girl drained the deadly potion before the eyes of her father, who went to her bedroom to call her after o'clock this morning. "It's sugar water." she said, when he looked inquiringly at her as she raised the bottle to her lips. It was a two ounce phial, and she drained its contents almost to the last dreg. But doctors found later that there was a small yellow substance left in the bottle, the exact nature of which they couldn't make out. Miss Wakelee underwent an operation for appendicitis less than a year ago. Her health did not return. During the last month she suffered considerably from headaches. Last night she retired after a difference with her parents as to whether she should go out. They disapproved of her plan to leave the house during the evening. and when she went to bed she was out

Entire Diplomatic Corps Meet in Mexico City to Consider Plans For Protection of Foreign Interests.

Mexico City, May 11.-A his tory-making conference, having for its object the safeguarding of lives and property of foreigners, is in progress at the American Legation. today. Participating in it are the Ambassadors, Ministers and Charges D'Affaires of all of the countries represented in the diplomatic corps. The outcome is likely to be an offer to the Mexican government of the services of 5,000 leading Mexicans and members of the foreign colony to act as a reserve police force and prevent murder and rapine in this

The foreign guards will be abso lutely neutral. Their work will be confined to protecting the public buildings and the foreign quarter from assaults by bandits whose object would be robbery instead of assisting the insurrectos. Feeling in the city is divided, to-day, over the result of the fall of Juarez. Some of the leading Mexicans believe it will make for peace as it will bring President Diaz to a realization that only his immediate signation will prevent protracte but must fight on to the bitter end It is unofficially stated that the gov ernment will not change its plans to wage relentless warfare on the Maderoists. The great fear here, today, is that the United States govern-ment, now that Juarez is in the hands of the insurrectos, will recognize them as belligerents. It is believed here that factiona jealousies are already appearing in the Madero ranks. Criticism of the failure of Madero, personally, totake the field while leaving the direction of his troops to his lieutenants, is freely heard. The Diez officials are hoping that the actual wairiors in the Madero ranks will relegate the provisional president to the rear and start fighting among themselves for Reports, today, show that fighting is general in many parts of the re public. Federal forces are for the most part concentrated in the state capitals and bands of insurrectos are trying to drive them out. Fighting is still in progressing at Atlixco, the key to Pueblo City. Washington Officials Now Looking Up International Law on This Phase in Mexican War Situation.

Washington, May 11-Recognition of the Mexican insurrectos as belliger ents by the United States is little nearer, today, than before the capture of Juarez, it was declared by officials who have been searching the international law records for prece-

The principal reason for not recognizing belligerency in Mexico is that by so doing the United States would abandon all claims for reparation for damages. Recognition, at this time, would be construed the world over as a declaration of the moral support of the revolution by the United States. Madero, however, will not be able to import arms, ammunition and supa despatch received at the War De- plies as he pleases. Individuals may cross the border at will but no "expeditions" will be permitted. An "expedition" consists of three or more men, under the law.
